MONDAY, Sept. 18-6 P. M. The stock market opened quite buoyant this morning, with considerable activity in all the leading faucies. Erie Income Bonds advanced 2 per cent; Erie, 1871, 14; do. 1862, 14; Illinois Central Bonds, 14; New York Central Bends, 14; Nicaragua Transit, 14; Cumberland Coal 1½; New York Central Railroad ½; Michigan Southera Pailroad, ½; Harlem, ¾; Eric Railroad, 2; Reading Railroad, 2. There was an active demand for railroad bonds to day, and the sales were unusually large. The ups and downs in Eric create a good deal of excitement among speculators. A fluctuation of three and four per cent in twenty-four hours is nothing unusual. These sudden and violent variations show how weak holders are, and show that any quantity of stock put on the mar-ket will depress prices largely. Attempts have lately been made by the large holders to realize and reduce, if possible, their long lines; but in every instance the decline has been so great that they have been com-pelled to stop and become buyers again to ar-rest the downward movement of prices. So long as they can hold and buy moderately every day, so long the present or even a greater market value may be main-tained, but as there is no demand outside of certain present market value of the relational stock is based en-tirely on the operations of speculators. Whether it moves up or down, depends upon the longs and the aborts. As for real value it has none. The bulls and bears will keep it moving up and down, and the stock will at all times be good for speculative operations. Cumberland closed firm at our quotations. Reading Railroad improved considerably to day. Every company connected with the production and transportation of coal, must be doing a very profitable business. It has been pretty well set-tled that prices for this article will be sustained, principears to te slowly but steadily advancing, without any indications of speculative induence. After the adjournment of the Board the following sales of stocks were made at auction by A. H. Nicolay: sales of stocks were made at auc ion by A. H. Nicolay:—

There has not been much change in the movement of each department. We have only to report an increase in discounts of $111,534; in deposits, $635,430, and in specie, $87,942. The circulation shows a decrease of $148,098. These changes are of but trilling importance. Within the past four or five weeks there has been no great alteration in the operations of our city banks. In that time the discounts have not varied two hundred

Clourand dollars, and the specie on hand has not varied dve hundred thousand dollars. This is a very extraor-dinary fact in the face of the excessive shipments of precious metals. To the policy lately pursued by the banks may be attributed the absence of any serious stringency in the money market. Money has been in active demand, but the banks have preserved a uni-form line of discounts, and kept the commercial commu-nity free from panics. Credit has therefore been preserved, and proper checks exercised when necessary.

The production, consumption, and price of coal appears to occupy just now a good deal of the public min 1. We have given several communications on the subject, and now give another. Our object is to place all the facts before the community, that they may govern themselves and now give arother. Our object is to place all the facts before the community, that they may govern themselves understandingly. The arguments in favor of a short supply are certainly strong and entitled to serious consideration.

PRODUCTION AND CONSUMPTION OF COAL, 1854.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Your article in this morning's paper on the subject of coal is sensible and to the purpose. It gives what might be repeated every day in the week, without interfering with anybody's business, and is just exactly what ought to be known. As a reason for the present high price, it might be added that a demand over and above the regular increase for this year, produced by a sudden and unexpected demand for iron, had as much influence as any other cause. A large number of furnoces have recently been put in blast, and they consume vast quantities of coal. The successful experiment of consuming coal in steamers, locomotives, and manufactories, has created another market for the raw material. The amount of coal used in the manufacture of iron can be easily calculated when we state that a furnace producing about fourteen tons of metal per day, will use about 12,000 tons of coal per year, and a roiling mill of ordinary size about 25,000 tons of coal per annum. Stamers have at times this year been unable to secure a sufficient supply. This additional consumption becoming known, and reaching the cars of operators, a general turn out for higher wages was the consequence. The laborer demanded an advance; the miner tripled his rates; the transporter increased his freights; the railroad tolls were increased, and the carter advanced the amount of his cartage. Upon the back of all those extra charges a fire occurred upon the Reading railroad, by which its machinery was for a time reduced to the capacity of 20,000 tons per week. Then a freshet occurred on the Lehigh and Lackawama, which delayed coal operations for a long time. In your article you make the increase is only about 500,000 tons on the receipt of last year. Last year's

DECLENSION—10 ay american Fillow Citi.

Declementary age announced myself a candidate for Congress in the Seventh district, and am now pained to be compelled to withdraw on account of ill health and other domestic afflictions, over which I could have no control, and which put it wholly out of my power to do justice to an independent carvass. The labors of a stuap can illustrate and ways andous, and would be doubly so in this tocality, because this truly republican mode in coming before the public is not in fashion hereabouts. I do not pretend to possess the eloquence of the immortal Clay, whose confidence I long enjoyed, nor do I arrogate to myself the profundity of a Webster; and regret this state of things the more because there are questions and points of great national interest which ought to be mooted before the people, and upon which I think I could shed some new and advantageous light. I allude to the Missouri compromise, which I can show to have been unconstitution and laws, and to employ such labor as they shall please; slavery and the villany of the abolitionists, though abstractly, I am one; and a repeal or modification of the naturalization laws, &c. Circumstances may arise which will induce me to resume the canvass, but as I now view the present and future they are not likely to occur I reluctantly withdraw from the contest, but will employ every possible and consistent exertion to promote the cause to which I have so long been an unflinching friend; and return my most hearty and cordial thanks to those friends who so kindly singled me out to be the victor and champion over the combined forces of old party hacks and Papal influences. The year 1854 will be long remembered, and particularly for its national phenomena, for her new political sun his arisen in the East, the West, the North and the South, and whose scorching rays shall not be subdued until Americana shall truly declare, both spiritually and literally, that they are free, sovereign and independent. My friends will please not take me amiss
